Enjoying the Winter!

Braving the weather, North Branford Troop # 463 spent a snowy weekend in Vermont. Anyone interested in joining scouts, please contact Scoutmaster, Vincent Candelora at vincentcandelora@comcast.net.

It might be time for these brave souls to build another igloo as they did last year.

HEROES

*My heart turns heavy and my eyes turn wet,
When I happen to see a disabled vet.
Turned back into civilian life with a torn and broken dream,
Memories of a buddy lost, too real it did seem.
Flashback dreams and sleepless nights,
Thoughts of war and senseless fights.
His country was served by a patriotic lad,
Who entered as a teen and emerged all to sad.
The rehab road seems impossible at times
Progressing slowly, looking for improvement signs.
War is hell, projected by man,
we need a solution, A much better plan.
A Poem of Patriotism by Val Ferro*

Eliason on Tomatoes

To all you who bought Watermelon Beefsteak Tomatoes from me last year I would like to hear of your opinions. Things didn't work out as had expected in that surgery on my son's shoulder forced us having to release them sooner than we would have liked. Although in excellent condition I would have liked them to be ready to be planted when you received them. I was in hopes of being there when you picked them up so I could explain these are heirloom and not to expect a perfectly round red ball. With it's convoluted shape it presents a measure of effort in slicing. It's virtue is in the flavor and it's size. I trust you found them worthy of your effort.

Part of my encouraging the planting of this tomato was in assuring it not be lost to the tomato world. My fear of this was removed with the tremendous increase in it's seeds being available by several seed houses on the internet. Heretofore one had to seek it's availability. I hope you saved some seeds. We may have some plants this year, but we would have to be notified immediately and since I do these things without first consulting with my son, who is burdened with it's fulfillment, I'm risking a family breach even at this.

I learned some had suffered loss from the blight. Another bit of advice I would have related that everyone should heed, whether the tomato blight or of your squash, or even your flowers is the importance of spraying with "Baking Powder", which is Potassium Bicarbonate not "Baking Soda". Don't buy the store variety. Type in "Nuts.com" and buy it at a ridiculous price for enough to last a year when used at 1 tablespoon to a gallon of water.

State Representative Vincent Candelora

Connecticut's Future Starts with Our Graduates

Connecticut has recently been given the dubious distinction of having more residents moving out than moving into the state, and we are dead last in the country for job growth. We often hear two complaints from residents, it's too expensive to live in Connecticut and our college graduates are leaving the state. This legislative session, I've joined members of my caucus to propose two pieces of legislation that offer some relief for our recent graduates and create incentives for them to stay in Connecticut.

The first proposal provides for a personal income tax deduction for interest paid on student loans. Mortgage debt used to be the biggest expense for young couples, but now too often we hear of the crippling amounts of college loan debt. Sixty one percent of the Class of 2012 carries some sort of college debt averaging $27,816 per student. This statistic puts Connecticut 17th in the nation. Like deductibility of home mortgage interest, the state should allow for students or parents to deduct these payments from their income. We have reached a point where people are no longer choosing education due to cost. This proposal recognizes the shift in debt obligations and provides tax relief for those paying student loans.

The House Republican caucus has championed this second proposal for almost a decade, and while it was passed into law a few years ago, it has yet to be implemented. Senate Bill 163 would require the Commissioner of Economic and Community Development to establish the Learn Here, Live Here program, which helps students save toward a down payment on their first home in Connecticut by segregating a portion of their state income tax payments for up to ten years after they graduate.

Home ownership is difficult to attain in Connecticut. Hartford often debates the issue of how to bring more affordable housing here. This proposal is a unique affordable housing program that encourages home ownership, promotes college education and helps stem the ongoing "brain drain" of young people heading out of our state. 'Learn Here, Live Here' is an initiative that creates a growing trust fund which young adults can access up to 10 years after graduating. The state would collect a portion of income taxes from college graduates who could then use that money to help buy their first home. The program would require an infusion of approximately $1 million, but will become self-sustaining over time from the income revenue deposits.

The Finance, Revenue and Bonding Committee has raised both of these bills for public hearings in March. It is my hope that these low cost items can bring some relief to our young graduates as they begin their careers in Connecticut.

Let's Be "Frank"

Well brother, it's been a while. It's been a cold snowy February. As I was beginning this letter, we lost power. I couldn't help but think about several years ago when we had storm threats and how comforting it was to have the town broadcast warming shelters and shelters for potential power outage. This year we got nothing. Our town is seeing many changes and at this point few of them are good. I wonder if we still have a Town Manager as I have not seen him at any town events.

We just celebrated Valentine's Day, my favorite non-holiday. I guess it's good for the economy for restaurants, flower, card and candy sales but in my house, every day is Valentine's Day.

As I write this letter, we are exactly four weeks away from the start of high school pitchers and catchers. It's my favorite day of the year as it means that spring is just around the corner and baseball will soon be on TV as well as on the local fields. Only then will the cabin fever we all suffer in the winter be over.

We just got the Lenten schedule from our Church and many of the services (in our Italian parish) are going to be bilingual (Spanish and English). Press 1 for English and 2 for Spanish. I remember as a kid in an Italian parish they use to force the Italian speaking people to learn the language of our country and they slowly did away with Italian services. Now we are going to the Spanish flavor and getting away from English. I'm so confused. The Lenten season was always my favorite spiritual time and now after a life time in the same church, I have to find another place so I can get a full service in English. God Bless America.

I remember when we were kids, we use to visit seven churches on Holy Thursday, walking to all of them. Then it broke down to five and then three. Everyone you asked had a different reason for that tradition of worship. In any case you can't get from one church to another without a car. That's a pathetic commentary on our religion.

There was moderate support in my request for voluntary payments for the Totoket Times. No matter how hard I try, I can't convince the majority that they are not giving me a donation. It is a voluntary contribution to help defray the cost of mailing 26 issues a year to their homes. The paper serves many purposes in this town, the least one being feeding my family. If I had to feed my family on revenues from the Totoket Times, I wouldn't weigh six hundred pounds.

In any case, many people were very understanding and even sent more than the requested $10. This helps take care of some of the people who just can't afford it and some of the people who just don't care. Like anything else, the few who give a ___ must carry the ones who don't. If people forgot, they can still send the payment to Totoket Times, PO Box 313, Northford, CT.

Well everything else seems to be going fine and although when we get to this age we don't want time to fly by, I will be happy when spring steps in. Take care of things up there and I'll see you soon.

It’s About the Land

The North Branford Land Conservation Trust, Inc.

After you ‘round the corner at Bill Miller’s Castle onto Notch Hill Road (Rt 22) and drive north just past Valley Road, you may have noticed a quiet stream flowing towards the highway. It flows over a sluice-like structure before disappearing through a culvert under the road where it eventually joins the Branford River southwest of Valley Road. Named after a notch in a nearby rocky ridge where Rt 22 passes, Notch Hill Brook flows the entire year, even when there has been a prolonged dry-spell.

Have you ever wondered about the brook’s source? You might be surprised to learn that the source of the brook is in Guilford, about a mile away, east of residences on Ledgewood Drive and Hunter Hill Road. From Guilford the brook tumbles down a steep ridge into North Branford flowing through 119 acres of woodlands before it passes into NBLCT’s 25-acre ‘Notch Hill Brook’ property, then to town-owned land and on to the sluice.

The 119 acres between NBLCT’s property and the Guilford town line has qualities we want to conserve. This wilderness-like land, tucked away in the southeast corner of town, has at least one extended nearly vertical outcrop of ledge bedrock reaching more than 60-100 feet high from its base, a forest of oak and hickory trees, mixed hardwoods, a pond and the well-shaded stream perfect for brook trout.

Adjoining the 119-acre tract is NBLCT land through which the brook continues its westerly course. In recent years, NBLCT members marked the boundaries of this property with the round medallions you may have seen at other land trust locations. After the boundaries were marked, several of our members developed a trail with red blazes through the most scenic portions of the property. Crossing the brook at one of three locations was not a simple matter. Last year it was solved when a Boy Scout, Conner Gilbert, looking for a project to earn an Eagle Scout badge, planned, organized and constructed a unique bridge that would survive periodic flood flows of the brook.

After leaving NBLCT land, the brook continues on through a flood plain on town-owned property--a portion of which was the former town landfill before it was closed several decades ago. Bordering all this land on the north is a vestige of a former mode of public transportation, the New Haven and Shoreline Electric Railway right of way. A visible corridor of the right of way extends east from the town-owned land to the Guilford Town line and beyond. With NBLCT’s parcel at its core, consolidating and conserving this group of parcels, some 160+ acres, would protect scenic geologic formations, forest, vital habitat for wildlife and fisheries, and a part of our town’s history. Saving this land will not be just for our passive enjoyment. Future generations will enjoy it as well.

You can learn more about this and other properties and doings of NBLCT by joining us at our monthly meetings held at the Atwater Memorial Library, 7:00 pm, the first Wednesday of each month. You can also find us on Facebook.

Otto Schaefer, Secretary
North Branford Land Conservation Trust, Incorporated

Did you know.....that in 1777, Col. Jonathan Meigs led an expedition to Long Island and burned 12 British ships and captured 90 prisoners. The prisoners were later marched to Hartford through Northford where they were encamped one night. Some were guarded in the Episcopal Church and the rest in a nearby meadow on Old Post Road.

“Please Don’t Feed the Storm Drain”

Storm drains are designed to only carry rainfall runoff from our streets into our local waterways. Anything but water can contribute to water pollution and drainage issues.

In the winter months, you can help avoid potential flooding by clearing snow and ice around storm drains. Snow, ice and debris can interfere with drainage and clog storm drains causing hazardous street flooding and freezing.

Remember: Only Rain in the Drain!

Augur - First Robotics

North Branford resident Van Augur of Xavier High School prepares a robot for competition, as part of "First Robotics". Xavier's team "Full-Metal Falcons" will be competing in Waterbury and Hartford. The student led team is starting its third season.

Jerome Harrison Students - "Faction" Writing

During the month of February acclaimed local children's author, Nancy Elizabeth Wallace, has been visiting Jerome Harrison Elementary School and has worked with students in creating "faction" writing. Faction writing includes using a character to interweave a story with facts, creating illustrations, performing research around objects/props, and writing with a focus to include details that support the topic chosen. This process has been enjoyed by students and staff alike and has assisted in deepening the students' understanding of CCSS (Common Core State Standards) literacy expectations associated with research, writing, and non-fiction. Mrs. Wallace's presence has created an excitement around reading and writing in all JHS students.

NBHS Basketball Program Makes a "State"ment

After hitting a mid season slump, the North Branford High School basketball team took three out of four to get into the State Tournament for the first time in years. On the way, the Thudnerbirds Aerospace, Cromwell and Coginchaug and qualified with a 50 - 33 drubbing of Haddam Killingworth.

with freshman Brett Lequire almost flawless in the first half, the T-Birds took a half time lead of 25-16. They came out just as tough in the third quarter outscoring the H - K 13 - 5 and the rest as they say was history.

Lequire led the Birds with 24 points and senior Mark Dilauro chipped in with 15. The unsung hero of the game might have been Marc Mongillo who played tenaciously in the middle stopping the H-K big men as well as adding 7 points and some key rebounds.

Haddam killingworth came into the game 10-6 but that wasn't enough to stop North Branford from reaching their goal of making the playoffs.

Mystery writer Michael A. Draper author of Splattered Blood & Three Strikes and You’re Dead

Michael A. Draper holds a master’s degree in teaching from Saint Michael’s College in Vermont. He is the author of “Splattered Blood,” which has many of the same characters who appear in his new book “Three Strikes and You’re Dead.”

Michael spent four years in the Air Force, achieving the rank of captain. Currently agent emeritus in the field of life insurance and retirement planning, Mr. Draper found a great deal of inspiration for this novel while working with law enforcement personnel. He is also an avid book reviewer and is among the top Amazon reviewers. Michael retired in 2013 and devotes much of his time to writing and book reviewing.

Join us at the Atwater Library, 1720 Foxon Rd., in North Branford as he discusses his new book, Three Strikes and You’re Dead.

For cookbook lovers and food enthusiasts!

Do you like browsing cookbooks and cooking magazines? Trying new recipes and techniques? Our Cookbook Club is looking for new members. Each month we will highlight a certain cookbook title which will be on display at the library. Everyone will pick and cook a recipe from that book to bring to the next meeting. We will sample the dishes and discuss ingredients and cooking techniques, etc. It’s your chance to get new ideas and share your cooking tips while tasting fun, new recipes and making new friends!

For our first meeting on Saturday, Mar. 7, prepare a recipe from any magazine available at the Atwater or Smith Libraries. Bring your own place setting (plate, silverware, etc.) and one regular-sized recipe so that everyone can taste. The recipe should be prepared at home prior to the meeting. All future meetings will be held at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday afternoons. Call the library at 203 315-6020 to register or come in to sign up! The library is located at 1720 Foxon Rd. in North Branford.
